TAKING THE HIGH GROUND

Nobody appreciates more than Darren Bean just how important it is to own the high ground on the battlefield. Bean, who retired in 2007 as sergeant major of the U.S. Army Mountain Warfare School in Jericho, Vt., spent most of his 23-year military career training Soldiers to fight at high altitudes before coming to Natick.

COMBAT FEEDING RESEARCHER HONORED

Dr. Pat Dunne of the Combat Feeding Directorate at the Natick Soldier Research, Development and Engineering Center has earned the 2011 Institute for Food Safety and Health Award.

BELMORE RECEIVES AWARD IN AFGHANISTAN

Bulldogs meet challenges head-on. Natick's Steve Belmore, this week's "Bulldog of the Week" at the U.S. Army Corps of Engineer Afghanistan Engineer District-South, played a key role in developing and implementing innovative business practices that ensure the district meets the challenges of contracting for large infrastructure and facilities projects to support the Afghan National Army.

MORE THAN 'MAN'S BEST FRIEND'

Long heralded as "man's best friend," a dog can serve a human partner in so many different ways. Just ask Deb Mangano.

'SMALLEST WINNERS' ANNOUNCED

You've probably seen the TV show on which people compete to see who can lose the greatest amount of weight. Well, U.S. Army Garrison-Natick Family Morale, Welfare and Recreation recently held its own, smaller version of that competition.
